The CFA Institute, responsible for administering the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) program, has consistently held its exams three times a year – typically in February, May, and August. The specific 2024 CFA exam dates are crucial to candidates as they need to plan their study schedules meticulously. Historically, the dates have been announced well in advance, allowing candidates sufficient time for preparation. However, unforeseen circumstances, such as global pandemics (as seen in 2020 and 2021), have demonstrated the importance of flexibility and adaptability within the CFA program's scheduling. The historical trend of three exam windows per year has remained consistent, though the exact 2024 CFA exam dates are subject to the CFA Institute's official announcements.
