Introduction: Understanding the 1200 to 1450 AP World History Period

The period from 1200 to 1450 CE marks a pivotal era in world history, often referred to as the Post-Classical Era. Understanding this period is crucial for success in the AP World History exam. This era witnessed significant transformations across Eurasia, Africa, and the Americas, characterized by the rise and fall of empires, the spread of religions, burgeoning trade networks, and profound technological advancements. This article will delve into the key themes, methodologies, and approaches necessary for a comprehensive understanding of 1200 to 1450 AP World History.

1. The Rise of the Mongol Empire and its Impact (1200-1450 AP World History)

The Mongol conquests under Genghis Khan and his successors fundamentally reshaped the political landscape of Eurasia. This period of 1200 to 1450 AP World History saw the creation of the largest contiguous land empire in history. Analyzing the Mongol impact requires examining:

Military Organization and Strategy: The Mongols' military prowess, based on cavalry tactics and superior organization, allowed for rapid expansion.

Political Administration: While initially brutal, the Mongols implemented relatively efficient systems of tax collection and trade facilitation along the Silk Road. The Pax Mongolica, a period of relative peace and stability, facilitated trade and cultural exchange.

Cultural Exchange and Diffusion: The Mongol conquests facilitated the spread of ideas, technologies, and religions across Eurasia. The interactions between East and West during this time significantly impacted both regions.

Studying the Mongol Empire within the context of 1200 to 1450 AP World History demands analyzing both its destructive and constructive contributions to the era.

1. The Spread of Islam and its Influence (1200-1450 AP World History)

Islam continued its expansion during this period, both through conquest and trade. Focusing on 1200 to 1450 AP World History requires examining:

The Spread of Sufi Islam: Sufi missionaries played a significant role in converting populations in Africa and Asia.

The Rise of Powerful Islamic States: States like the Mamluks in Egypt, the Delhi Sultanate in India, and the various successor states of the Mongol Empire in Central Asia played vital roles in shaping the political and cultural landscape.

Trade and Cultural Exchange: Islamic trade networks connected diverse regions, facilitating the exchange of goods, ideas, and technologies.

1. The Renaissance in Europe and its Context (1200-1450 AP World History)

While the Renaissance is often associated with the period after 1450, its roots lie in the later Middle Ages. The seeds of intellectual and artistic change were sown during this period within the context of 1200 to 1450 AP World History.

The Rise of Cities and Trade: The growth of urban centers in Italy and other parts of Europe fueled economic growth and intellectual ferment.

The Rediscovery of Classical Learning: The rediscovery of Greek and Roman texts inspired new intellectual currents.

Early Humanist Movements: Early humanist thinkers challenged the dominant scholastic tradition and emphasized human potential.

1. Trade Networks and Technological Innovations (1200-1450 AP World History)

The period 1200 to 1450 witnessed significant developments in trade and technology:

The Silk Road: The Silk Road, while impacted by Mongol conquests, remained a vital artery of trade connecting East and West.

Trans-Saharan Trade: This network facilitated the exchange of goods between North Africa and sub-Saharan Africa.

Maritime Trade: The growth of maritime trade in the Indian Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea connected different regions and facilitated cultural exchange.

Technological Advancements: Innovations such as the astrolabe, improved shipbuilding techniques, and gunpowder weaponry significantly impacted trade and warfare.

1. The Black Death and its Consequences (1200-1450 AP World History)

The Black Death, a devastating pandemic that swept across Eurasia and North Africa in the mid-14th century, profoundly impacted societies in this 1200 to 1450 AP World History period. Studying this requires examining:

The Spread of the Plague: The plague's rapid spread, facilitated by trade routes, decimated populations.

Social and Economic Consequences: The plague led to labor shortages, social unrest, and religious upheaval.

Long-Term Impacts: The Black Death's long-term impact on social structures, economic systems, and religious beliefs was significant.

Methodologies and Approaches for Studying 1200 to 1450 AP World History

Effective study of this period requires employing various methodologies:

Comparative Analysis: Comparing and contrasting different societies and cultures is crucial for understanding the diversity of the era.

Periodization: Analyzing the different periods within the broader timeframe of 1200-1450, recognizing shifts and continuities.

Primary Source Analysis: Engaging with primary sources, such as letters, chronicles, and archaeological artifacts, provides firsthand insights into the lives and experiences of people during this period.

Thematic Analysis: Focusing on overarching themes like trade, religion, technology, and empire allows for a holistic understanding.

Conclusion

The period from 1200 to 1450 CE represents a dynamic and transformative era in world history.

Understanding this period within the context of 1200 to 1450 AP World History demands a multifaceted approach, incorporating comparative analysis, thematic study, and engagement with primary sources. By utilizing these methodologies, students can effectively navigate the complexities of this period and achieve success on the AP World History exam.

1200 to 1450 ap world history: AP World History Ethel Wood, 2016

1200 to 1450 ap world history: The Book of Margery Kempe Margery Kempe, 1985 The story of the eventful and controversial life of Margery Kempe - wife, mother, businesswoman, pilgrim and visionary - is the earliest surviving autobiography in English. Here Kempe (c.1373-c.1440) recounts in vivid, unembarrassed detail the madness that followed the birth of the first of her fourteen children, the failure of her brewery business, her dramatic call to the spiritual life, her visions and uncontrollable tears, the struggle to convert her husband to a vow of chastity and her pilgrimages to Europe and the Holy Land. Margery Kempe could not read or write, and dictated her remarkable story late in life. It remains an extraordinary record of human faith and a portrait of a medieval woman of unforgettable character and courage.

1200 to 1450 ap world history: Understanding by Design Grant P. Wiggins, Jay McTighe, 2005 What is understanding and how does it differ from knowledge? How can we determine the big ideas worth understanding? Why is understanding an important teaching goal, and how do we know when students have attained it? How can we create a rigorous and engaging curriculum that focuses on understanding and leads to improved student performance in today's high-stakes, standards-based environment? Authors Grant Wiggins and Jay McTighe answer these and many other questions in this second edition of Understanding by Design. Drawing on feedback from thousands of educators around the world who have used the UbD framework since its introduction in 1998, the authors have greatly revised and expanded their original work to guide educators across the K-16 spectrum in the design of curriculum, assessment, and instruction. With an improved UbD Template at its core, the book explains the rationale of backward design and explores in greater depth the meaning of such key ideas as essential questions and transfer tasks. Readers will learn why the familiar coverage- and activity-based approaches to curriculum design fall short, and how a focus on the six facets of understanding can enrich student learning. With an expanded array of practical strategies, tools, and examples from all subject areas, the book demonstrates how the research-based principles of Understanding by Design apply to district frameworks as well as to individual units of curriculum. Combining provocative ideas, thoughtful analysis, and tested approaches, this new edition of Understanding by Design offers teacher-designers a clear path to the creation of curriculum that ensures better learning and a more stimulating experience for students and teachers alike.

It explored the grand scheme of world history as a product of real-life human beings pursuing their individual and collective interests. It also offered a global perspective on the past by focusing on both the distinctive characteristics of individual societies and the connections that have linked the fortunes of different societies. It has combined a clear chronological framework with the twin themes of traditions and encounters, which help to make the unwieldy story of world history both more manageable and more engaging. From the beginning, Traditions & Encounters offered an inclusive vision of the global past-one that is meaningful and appropriate for the interdependent world of contemporary times--

1200 to 1450 ap world history: A Vindication of the Rights of Woman Barnes & Noble, Mary Wollstonecraft, 2004 Writing in an age when the call for the rights of man had brought revolution to America and France, Mary Wollstonecraft produced her own declaration of female independence in 1792. Passionate and forthright, A Vindication of the Rights of Woman attacked the prevailing view of docile, decorative femininity and instead laid out the principles of emancipation: an equal education for girls and boys, an end to prejudice, and the call for women to become defined by their profession, not their partner. Mary Wollstonecraft's work was received with a mixture of admiration and outrage Walpole called her a hyena in petticoats yet it established her as the mother of modern feminism.

1200 to 1450 ap world history: The Artist Project Christopher Noey, Thomas P. Campbell, 2017-09-19 Artists have long been stimulated and motivated by the work of those who came before them—sometimes, centuries before them. Interviews with 120 international contemporary artists discussing works from The Metropolitan Museum of Art's collection that spark their imagination shed new light on art-making, museums, and the creative process. Images of works from The Met collection appear alongside images of the contemporary artists' work, allowing readers to discover a rich web of visual connections that spans cultures and millennia.

1200 to 1450 ap world history: Southeast Asia in World History Craig Lockard, 2009-04-24

Here is a brief, well-written, and lively survey of the history of Southeast Asia from ancient times to the present, paying particular attention to the region's role in world history and the distinctive societies that arose in lands shaped by green fields and forests, blue rivers and seas. Craig Lockard shows how for several millennia Southeast Asians, living at the crossroads of Asia, enjoyed ever expanding connections to both China and India, and later developed maritime trading networks to the Middle East and Europe. He explores how the people of the region combined local and imported ideas to form unique cultures, reflected in such striking creations as Malay sailing craft, Javanese gamelan music, and batik cloth, classical Burmese and Cambodian architecture, and social structures in which women have often played unusually influential roles. Lockard describes colonization by Europeans and Americans between 1500 and 1914, tracing how the social, economic, and political frameworks inherited from the past, combined with active opposition to domination by foreign powers, enabled Southeast Asians to overcome many challenges and regain their independence after World War II. The book also relates how Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, Indonesia, and Vietnam are now among the fastest growing economies in the world and play a critical role in today's global marketplace.

1200 to 1450 ap world history: Timeline of World History Matt Baker, John Andrews, 2020-10-20 Chart the course of history through the ages with this collection of oversize foldout charts and timelines. Timeline of World History is a unique work of visual reference from the founders of the Useful Charts website that puts the world's kingdoms, empires, and civilizations in context with one another. A giant wall chart shows the timelines and key events for each region of the world, and four additional foldout charts display the history of the Americas, Europe, Asia and the Pacific, and Africa and the Middle East. Packed with maps, diagrams, and images, this book captures the very essence of our shared history.
